Family love since 1973

You are holding the new Jollein catalogue. This offers a complete overview of the latest Jollein 2020 collection plus our entire collection of 2019 and the NOOS collection (Never Out Of Stock). It is more than a catalogue of beautiful products. This collection by Jollein contains more than 47 years of family history. The story behind Jollein is the story of my family and our family business. The company was not founded by a bunch of clever marketeers but has its roots in our family. Love for the family and love for each other is our secret ingredient, which we also put in our products. Everything is designed and made with family love.

It all started with an old bus

The baby goods textile company, for which my father (Wim Smits Sr.) worked, went bankrupt in 1973. He was married to Gonny and had hungry mouths to feed at home. He was faced with the fact that bread had to be put on the table. My father was not one to give up. He bought a few rolls of beautiful fabric in Twente, where the Dutch textile industry was found at the time, and took them to a sewing workshop in Friesland. He refurbished an old bus and took his first made trade to his well-known relations; thus the family business was born.

A simple pig farmer's boy

As a little boy, I must have been around 5 years old, I often went on the road in the old Daf truck. I enjoyed watching my father do business in his own way. Without pretence and with a healthy dose of humour: "I'm just a simple pig farmer's boy". His customers loved him and business went well. Customers were his top priority and it showed.

Inventor of the baby sleeping Bag

In Germany, mothers bought sleep suits for their babies. My father thought that was a lovely thing. With the sleep suit in hand, he came up with the idea that - with a few minor adjustments - the sleep suit could be an ideal baby sleeping bag. The pattern was worked out in his sewing workshop and the first baby sleeping bag in the Netherlands was born.

Taking "the mobile showroom" to the customers

In the 1970s a "real" company was born. The old bus had made way for a moving showroom where you, the customer could choose your items straightaway. I was now in primary school and whenever I got the chance I drove along with him and learned the tricks of the trade in daily practice. When my father's health started failing in the 1990s, I got behind the wheel myself as an energetic youngster with a recently obtained truck license. "Make your customers happy today!" My father used to shout every morning when I left.

Marrit, the ideal match

The company grew and needed reinforcement in the field of administration and customer contact. This is where Marrit came into the picture; my father considered her the perfect candidate. Soon it became apparent exactly how right he was. She was not only the ideal match for the company, but also on a personal level sparks ignited between me and Marrit. Since then we have been inseparable. We are married and the proud parents of three beautiful children.

The power of family love

My father and I were out and about a lot and very busy with sales. My mother Gonny was always in the background as a silent force and Marrit took care of the administration and maintained contacts with our customers. In 2010 my father took a step back in the company.

Marrit used her sense of style and eye for detail by taking the appearance of the products to a higher level. This cleared the way for Marrit to establish Jollein as a real brand with its own identity. The customers loved it. Mothers recognised Jollein and the products felt familiar to them immediately.

Marrit is now at the head of our design team and together we run our company. And no longer from an old DAF, but from our business premises in Assen. What has never changed is the love with which we do this. Love for each other and our family, for our company and our entire team. This well-stocked catalogue is the result of this family feeling and every product contains our secret ingredient: Family love

Sleeping

TOG

At Jollein we understand that mothers will always worry when it comes to their little ones. There is a lot coming their way. Is my baby too hot or too cold? How should I dress my baby when they're sleeping? Do I need a blanket with or without lining? Questions which are not always easy to answer.

Fortunately, Jollein is here to help you out. We've had all our sleep related products tested for TOG value and have given them a TOG tag. This way you know exactly which items will suit you best.

TOG, what does it mean exactly?

TOG stands for Thermal Overall Grade and the value indicates the extent to which body heat is retained in, for example, sleeping bags and blankets. It is a grading system which ranges from 0 to 4. The cooler the environment, the lower the TOG value will be, and vice versa. The TOG value only applies indoors.
